U. S. COTTON ACREAGE IS 5 PERCENT UP, REPORT SHOWS

Crop Outlook, With Labor Troubles, Depress Market

DEMAND IS ACTIVE

Except For Strike Difficulty, Outlook Would Be Good

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 21.—Perhaps the most interesting bit of crop news received this week was the acreage report of the Southern Products Company, of Dallas, Texas, a concern whose crop investigations receive a good deal of attention from the trade. It pointed to an average increase of 5.2 percent, which was smaller than expected, in view of the fact that most of the private estimates thus far have indicated an average acreage increase of between 10 and 15 percent. It reported the increases by states as follows: North Carolina 3 percent; Louisiana 4; Arkansas 6; Texas and Tennessee 7; Mississippi and Alabama 9; Oklahoma 14 and Missouri 20 percent. Reports from Georgia showed an indicated decrease of 4 percent and South Carolina 5 percent.

INDICATED AREA

The indicated area was placed at 34,005,000 acres. The market worked back to the 18-cent level for May early in the week where it met the same sort of Southern selling which has appeared on all recent upturns to that basis, checking further rise. It would seem from this that the South is prepared to supply all demand for cotton at 18 cents and this fact, with the labor disturbances, which have not improved during the week, have tended to restrict bullish activity, which on several occasions included a renewal of outside trade and a much broader market. Word from New England towards the end of the week indicated that a number of efforts looking to an ending of the textile strike are under way, but no results have as yet been noted. The coal strike is also unchanged, and with these handicaps to general business improvement, the efforts of bull operators to empahsize constructive features in the market situation are hampered.

There has been, however, an undoubted increase of demand for cloths in the local market, and considerable business has been done this week. Big distributing houses report more seasonal activity and leaders in the industry believe that were the strike menace removed a great business improvement would follow, in which cotton goods would share. A Washington statistician points out that consumption is running above a prewar normal, but that stocks at mills are less than the average for 1910-14 deducting therefrom that mills must purchase more than normal amounts during the remainder of the season. He expresses surprise over the fact that Southern mills and smaller stocks on March 31 last by 85,000 bales than for March 31, 1914 while consumption by Southern mills for March 1922 was 76,000 bales more than for 1914 and more than for any March on record except that of 1917.

FAVORABLE WEATHER

A well known Alabama cotton concern writes that weather conditions the first half of April were quite favorable and considerable progress had been made with crop preparations and planting of cotton. In the Southern districts planting is well under way but in the central and northern districts they are just beginning to plant. On the whole, farm work is rather behind. They reiterate their former estimate of a 12 percent increase in acreage and 20 percent increase in fertiliser for the entire cotton belt, and say Southern holders show more disposition to sell and are doing so gradually. There is some demand from Southern mills and for export. In contrast to this crop view, a local cotton man received word this week which indicated that Texas and the Delta country are very much behind in work, and it looks as if Southern Texas will have a great deal of replanting to do, which will be the second re-planting and therefore precludes the possibility of an early movement in Texas. The head of a prominent New York cotton house who has just returned from a trip over the belt said

Hero Friends Have Met Again!

Marshal Joffre and General Pershing

IT was over the luncheon table in Washington and not on the battle-scarred fields of France that Marshal Joffre, hero of the Marne, and General John J. Pershing, Commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, met this time. They recalled amusing incidents of how an American doughboy "sold" a Yank ammunition train to a French general. Hence the smiles.

Shanghai Good Place For Rearing Children, Doctor Hiltner Tells Clubwomen

Valuable hints on the care of foreign children in China during the summer months were presented to the American Woman's Club Mothers' Department by Dr. W. G. Hiltner at the last meeting of the season held yesterday morning.

"Is Shanghai a good place in which to bring up children or is it not?" Dr. Hiltner said. "If I didn't think it is, no boat could sail quickly enough to bear my own family away. Parent's first duty is to obtain and maintain the health of their children. If I, or you, don't think that it can be done in Shanghai, we should make every effort to get away from here at the earliest possible time. The determining essentials in regard to children's health are food, water, climate, the prevalence of disease and the possibilities for recreation.

"Food I rank first. Those of us, whether housewives, mothers or doctors who are constantly thinking of balanced meals, know that the markets of Shanghai offer us simple solutions for all our problems. In Siberia during the war, I used to read the market lists in the CHINA PRESS and it seemed incredible that there could be such a variety of food in any one place. I can say without much chance of being disputed that in Shanghai we have one of the best markets in the world for feeding children.

PLENTY OF FOOD

"In all seasons and at comparatively moderate prices flour, fruits, vegetables, nuts, milk, eggs and meats may be obtained in almost limitless variety. The nutritive value of these foods is sometimes questioned or compared unfavorably to home foods. There is certainly nothing whatsoever in this point. The flavor of some foods is doubtless not as good as that to which we have been accustomed, but in others flavor is superior, Chinese puffed rice, peanuts, the persimmon and the mango being outstanding examples.

"The fact that all households here have servants is a reason why Shanghai children are more apt to be given properly balanced meals. At home, where so many families have no servants, a tired mother often remarks, 'Let's have a bowl of oyster soup for supper,' 'I guess a Welsh rarebit will fill the bill tonight' or 'A beefsteak and fried onions will be nice for lunch, don't you think?'

"Here in Shanghai there is seldom a tiffin or dinner where there are not from three to five courses. How long, for instance, would a cook last if some evening's dinner were to consist of macaroni and cheese? The point I am making is that the servants make it possible to have a variety of food for our children that we would not be likely to have otherwise. We rarely find a foreign child in China who has scurvy or ricketts. Water has the same effect here as it does in the homelands—properly filtered or boiled, it will not cause disease.

"Climate bears the brunt of most of the adverse criticism in regard to China. There is unquestionably something in the air we breathe or more likely in the light that shines upon us which is debilitating or enervating. This, however, usually affects grown-ups without touching our babies. For three months in the year the heat is trying but if our children are protected from the midday sun by wearing proper hats they seldom have trouble. In spite of the bad smells or 'the national air of China' there is nothing in the odors themselves that cause any kind of disease except possibly nerves.

SUMMER RESORTS

"The summer resorts are always available and always helpful. May I say that there are few places in the world where such a large proportion of the population take long holidays. I am not dogmatic about it, but I am coming to believe that it is not necessary to leave Shanghai every summer. Children, however, should have a change every other summer. Discussion of the merits of the various summer resorts is almost as fascinating as the servants problem. One of my friends once said that his favorite resort was Mokanshan, the reason being that when it became too hot, he could easily go back to Shanghai and enjoy the electric fans and ice water.

"The diseases of China are not in themselves peculiar to this country. With few exceptions we have the same diseases here as in our home lands, and they are no more severe or deadly. More care must be used, however, in the matter of cleanliness and the preparation of food. Contamination from filth and flies is the most common source of any disease that may be properly ascribed to the insanitary conditions in China. These things may be easily guarded against if the housekeeper will exercise strict supervision of her

CHINESE ROBBERS ARE EXECUTED IN PUBLIC HIGHWAY

Double Execution Carried Out In Chapei At Noon At Scene Of Crime

Doo Lai-bei and Wang Zai-ling, armed robbers who had been convicted and sentenced to death, were shot in the presence of a big gathering at noon today on a public highway within a stone's throw of the boundary of the International Settlement.

The double execution took place just in front of the dwelling of Chao Shih-fu on Paotung Road adjacent to Jukong Road. The two doomed men had been taken from the military prison at Lunghwa about ten o'clock in the morning and after they had been wheeled in rickshas through a great portion of Chapei in accordance with custom they were conveyed to the scene of the crime for which they were paying penalty. This was in front of Chao Shih-fu's home which they had robbed. Here a shallow trench was prepared and the two were placed in it blindfolded. Chinese officers then drew revolvers and blew out their brains.

WASHINGTON DECLINATION TO PARLEYS IS NOT FINAL

White House Says "Way Is Open To Conversations"

U. S. RECEPTIVE

Japanese Envoy Explains Why F.E.R. Was Excluded

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, May 16.—It was stated at the White House today that the note declining to participate in the Hague conference was intended to leave the door open for further conversations.

The United States is not disposed to accept Britain's invitation to sit on the commission to investigate the Turkish atrocities against Christian minorities in Asia Minor.

Genoa, May 17.—Yesterday's passage of arms between Viscount Ishii and M. Chicherin arose in consequence of the Soviet's contention that the Far Eastern Republic should be included in the non-aggression pact. Viscount Ishii pointed out that this was impossible because the Far Eastern Republic was not participating in the Genoa Conference.

Washington, May 16.—Mr. Hughes' note to the American Ambassador to Italy emphasises that the United States Government is most desirous of aiding in the economic restoration of Russia, but it is essential that the conditions of restoration shall be productivity in Russia, without which there appears to be no sound basis for credits which must be provided within Russia herself.

Mr. Hughes goes on to say that the United States Government is most willing to give serious attention to any proposals of the Genoa Conference or any later conference, but it considers that the present suggestions, in view of the terms of the Russian memorandum to the Genoa Conference, lack the definiteness which would enable concurrence of the United States Government in the plan.

London, May 16.—The American refusal to attend the Hague was first communicated to Mr. Lloyd George and the American Ambassador by Reuter's Genoa Correspondent. It caused intense surprise and disappointment as the American Ambassador had previously intimated the likelihood of the United States' participation.

The intention of the American Government apparently changed as the result of a debate in the Senate yesterday, when Senator Borah, opposing participation declared that America's assistance was not required in Europe, whose illness was due to the Treaty of Versailles.

He concluded by introducing a resolution to recognise the Soviet Government. This was referred to a committee.

(China Press Service)

Washington, May 15.—France has appealed to the United States to change its decision regarding the Hague Conference which is to follow the Genoa parley, but the administration as yet has given no sign of a favorable reply.

A State Department telegram from Ambassador Child detailing the French invitation is interpreted to mean that France is ready to throw the weight of her influence in with that of America and give the latter the predominating voice in the decision. Further concessions such as the representation of Russia on the committee also have been forecasted.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 16.—The decision of the Russians to go to the Hague is understood to be the result of the assurance that they will meet the other Powers on a footing of equality and that the conclusion of separate agreements with Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Sweden, which are already being negotiated, will not be prevented.

It is now expected that the Conference will terminate its plenary session on Thursday. The meeting of experts may now be held at Stockholm or Riga as the Russians object to the Hague.

The meeting will not have plenipotentiary powers, as advocated by Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Schanzer, but will refer

Blue-Bird Is Commonest Household Pet In China

By Elsie McCormick

Judged from one standard at least, China is the most successful country in the world. The great aim of humanity is to put salt on the tail of the blue-bird, to capture that evanescent quality which never seems to thrive in a cage. Religion, philosophy, art and pleasure are different ways of applying the salt. The Western world tries one method after the other, succeeding usually only in securing a draggle-tailed blackbird with a raucous voice and a sarcastic accent.

In China, however, blue birds are as common as chickens. Every coolie seems to own one. Instead of being the shy, elusive birds they are in the West, with a tendency to turn gray if put in a cage, they keep their coloring for life and twitter gaily when captured. It is small wonder that China does not register much enthusiastic interest in copying the struggles and frettings of the West; for, having captured her blue-bird, what is there left for the Occident to give her?

AWFUL ANTICIPATIONS

Before coming to China, we never thought of it as a land of happiness. We had a scrambled impression of girl babies being drowned in stone vases, of tong-wars raging on narrow streets, and of an unreadable people who spent much time thinking up new cruelties to perpetrate on visiting foreigners. We have learned since that though there is much suffering in China, though there are famines, floods, and drought, and though most of the population are just one jump ahead of an empty rice-bowl, the people have found the Pollyanna secret that has somehow eluded the West.

Where else, for instance, would you find men with ropes over their shoulders pulling loads that would stagger a mule and beaming with delight as they did so? Where would you discover ragged runners dragging human passengers through the streets on legs knotted with varicose veins, and wearing the expression of a man who has just been elected to Congress? Where would you find peasants in an area that divided its time about equally between droughts and floods, who had faces deeply lined with the wrinkles brought by laughter? Where else could you discover horribly deformed beggars who light-heartedly exchange quip for quip with the passersby? There may be such a land, but we have never seen it in our wanderings or visualised it even in our dreams.

There are times when Westerners find this perpetual Pollyanna annoying. The amah bubbles with girlish laughter when she shows us a run in our newly-bought silk stockings. The houseboy exposes all his dentistry when he tells his master that the laundry no have come. The cook comes up smiling behind a badly burnt roast of a cake as flat as a blown-out tire. It is evident that the Chinese bear other people's misfortunes with as much cheerful fortitude as they do their own, much to the annoyance of the foreigner who requires at least the outer signs of repentance or sympathy.

LESSONS IN JOY

Just how China tamed the blue-bird is a study worthy of philosophers and priests. No mere layman can expect to fathom it without years of study and an almost divinely understanding heart. Certainly it is not the result of material things upon which foreigners depend so much for happiness, for the poorest ricsha coolie is competent to give lessons in the joy of living to some of the best upholstered Western millionaires.

No doubt one of the reasons for China's numerous aviaries of blue-birds is the complete absence of nerves. Hence there are none of the neurotic fellowship who live on bankrupt ganglia, who torture themselves with vague longings for things beyond the moon, and who are pursued by fears which they cannot name. Even so-called normal individuals of the West are tormented by desires that

How's Business?

What is the industrial situation in the United States now?

Has there been any marked improvement?

What about unemployment?

Is any building in progress?

All these questions are answered in a series of articles starting in THE EVENING STAR TODAY. A survey of business conditions conducted through a symposium among federal, state, labor and industrial leaders in practically every state, under the auspices of American newspapers, furnished the ground work of the survey. FAREWELL GIVEN AT SMOKER FOR CHIEF M. W. PETT

Addresses Praising Departing Officer Made Following Interesting Program

Representatives of the Municipal Council, officers and members of the Shanghai Fire Department and friends united last night to give a rousing farewell in the form of a smoker to Chief M. W. Pett who sails on leave on Saturday on the Empress of Asia and who will cross the United States on his way to England. He will return to Shanghai on the same vessel next February.

Besides these things, a gold watch for Chief Pett and a silver mesh bag for Mrs. Pett were presented by the officers and men of the staff and a valuable Chinese painting was given by the men of Central station.

An address highly commending Chief Pett was given by Sir Edward Pearce, former Chairman of the Municipal Council after which a brief and fitting response was made by Chief Pett. Chief Officer Dyson, who will relieve Chief Pett, also spoke.

The program that preceded the speaking was in two parts of ten numbers each. The numbers given included piano selections by Mr. W. J. Cameron, selections by Messrs. G. B. Stormes, M. WU'S TROOPS GO NORTH TO ATTACK THE FENGTIENITES

Twenty Trainloads Of Soldiers Pass Tientsin

NEAR OBJECTIVE

Chihli Army To Attempt Flanking Movement

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Paotingfu, May 17.—Chang Tso-lin's failure to keep the terms of the agreement which has been arranged by the British Consul at Luanchow for his evacuation from this region has caused General Wu Pei-fu to resume his attack. The time limit for Chang's evacuation has now expired. The overland flanking forces of the Chihli Army is now nearing the objective.

The British Consul at Luanchow will be asked why the agreement was not kept. General Wu has warned him that the responsibility for any loss of foreign life or property in the battle area must be affixed on Chang.

The Chihli headquarters has no intelligence regarding the alleged Japanese assistance being sought by Chang. Chang Tso-lin's front line of defense is at Kaiping, second line at Wayi and third at Kuyeh.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 17.—About twenty trains of Chihli troops left for the Northeast yesterday, including the 21st Brigade of the 11th Division. Chihli officers are interfering with the railway staff and the traffic is much disorganised. A hundred men of Coke's Rifles left for the mining area yesterday.

General Chang Tso-lin has renamed the railway from Kaiping to the east. He has also ordered a new flag and crest for the new state. He is attempting to seize all the Manchurian Salt, Customs, Railway and Postal revenues.

The Peking and Tientsin Times states that the Paotingfu Conference decided to reconvene the first Republican Parliament. The Times says that this would finally dispose of the pretension of President Hsu Shih-chang to be legal president which constitutes an insuperable obstacle to the unification of China.

CHANG TO FIGHT

(Chang Mei Service)

Peking, May 13.—That Chang Tso-lin is making a stand against Wu Pei-fu on the Peking-Mukden Railroad is fairly clear at present, though how complete a stand it will be it is hard to tell. Reliable sources from Mukden direct states that recruiting is going on all over Manchuria and also that troops are being sent down the Peking-Mukden railway, which would not be the case if Chang had given up all hope of a counter attack.

Chang Tso-lin's men are entrenched at Kuyeh, Kaiping, and Luanchow, with the advance guards at Kaiping. The main body is at Luanchow, about 30,000 strong, as reported yesterday, with 15,000 at Changli, 25 miles up the line. The front line of General Wu Pei-fu consists of five hundred men at Hsu Ki Chih, the first station south of Tongshan, and a brigade at Tangfang, and other troops at Peitang, with Wu sending up his forces as fast as possible.

In view of the small number that Wu Pei-fu has sent up, and the disorganised condition of Chang Tso-lin's men, no fighting is expected for several days at the earliest. When the fight does come it is expected rather at Luanchow than at places further south, and the advance lines that have been thrown out by Chang Tso-lin are considered only a screen.

There is serious trouble with regard to the Kailan mines at Tongshan, which, according to a Tientsin report, General Chang Tso-lin has threatened to shell if the Chihli troops advance any further north. This, however, is considered merely a bluff on the part of the northern general to gain time that will enable him to collect his scattered forces and entrench himself, be hoping that the British interests in the mines, which are among the largest in the world, would demand that the British Legation intervene in some way, thus either gaining him time or else bringing about mediation that will save his face, and allow him to withdraw to Mukden without any further loseca. The British Legation, however, has stated officially that it will take no steps of any kind.

STRONG SUPPORT

Foreign sources in Mukden report that there is strong support for Chang Tso-lin in Manchuria, and that the four men who have been offered the posts of Tuchuns of the Manchuria provinces have refused to accept them. Opposed to this, however, is a less reliable report, that the four men, Wu Chun Sheng, Feng Teh-ling, Yuan Ching-kai, and Shih Chi-chang, offered respectively the positions of Military Governor of Mukden, Military Governor of Heilungkiang, Civil Governor of Mukden, and Civil Governor of Heilungkiang, have never received the telegrams that offered the posts, and that the reports of their refusals are false, and merely propaganda, the telegrams having been held up by the Mukden telegraph office.

The truth is difficult to get at, for at least one of these men, Wu Chun-shen, is among the men whom Wu Pei-fu a long time ago declared would never fight against him. There seems to be considerable support of Chang Tso-lin in Manchuria, which may account for his unwillingness to assume office.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 17.—Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu yesterday telegraphed to General Wang Shih-chen urging his immediate acceptance of the Premiership, pointing out that the unsatisfactory Cabinet situation was holding up important questions and promising not to interfere in the appointment of the personnel of the Cabinet, which General Wang might determine with the President.

In addition to his threat to take all the postal and telegraph revenues of Mukden, it is reported that General Chang Tso-lin is establishing a railway bureau in Manchuria at Koupengtze, headed by Mr. Liu Chang-nien, former Vice-President of the Peking-Mukden Railway. The Government has had no communications from General Chang since his defeat, but is receiving further appeals from various bodies in Manchuria, including the Kirin Provincial Assembly and the Chamber of Commerce, for the cancellation of General Chang's dismissal, while numerous reports are reaching Peking of increased brigandage and general lawlessness in Manchuria, to which the Manchurian petitioners also refer, stating that General Chang's return is necessary to prevent bandits from overrunning the country. Consequently, it is believed that General Chang Tso-lin still hopes for compassionate treatment.

General Wu Pei-fu, meanwhile, is continuing his preparations for war. The Chihli troops have taken 10 aeroplanes from Peking, giving them a total of 12 serviceable machines, with which they apparently intend to bomb the Fengtien forces. Chihli suffers from a shortage of pilots, but three efficient airmen at Paotingfu are now hastily training a new squad.

General Feng Yu-hsiang's 11th Division marched to Chungliangcheng yesterday, and General Wu Pei-fu went from Paotingfu to Tientsin yesterday evening.

Peking, May 17.—The Yichun is concentrating in the neighborhood of Jehol with the intention of disarming the remainder of the Fengtien 28th Division, which constitutes General Chi Ching-chun's defense force.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, May 16.—Chang Tso-lin has of late communicated a telegram to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, setting forth that the cause of the retreat on the part of the Fengtien troops was due to the betrayal of the 16th Division and that he (Chang Tso-lin) made a retreat to Luanchow for the purpose of reforming military operations and also expressing his hope that the expeditionary forces of the South would push to the front forthwith, for he had a firm resolution to retrieve his defeat after the arrival of reinforcements.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, May 17.—In connection with the declaration of independence by Chang Tso-lin, the Asahi writes:

By declaring independence, Chang Tso-lin appears to have an intention of assuming a defiant attitude to the last towards the Peking Government and of securing political power of his own faction. In view of the financial difficulties, it is most unlikely that Chang Tso-lin will be able to support his large force for months, though the combination of the military strength at his command seems to be rather strong. It goes without saying that Japan and other Powers will absolutely refrain from rendering any assistance to Chang Tso-lin in conformity with their pronounced principle of non-interference in China's domestic affairs. It is therefore a question if Chang Tso-lin will be in a position to maintain his independence for any length of time.

The independence of the Three Eastern Provinces, however, is a question of great importance to Japan and in consequence it is imperative for the Japanese Government not to make any mistake in adopting proper measures according to circumstances.—Italics ours.—Ed.

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, May 17.—The majority of the Chinese papers predict that Mr. Tung Kang will be the next Minister of Finance and Mr. Kao Eng-hung Minister of Communications. Meanwhile, the Acting Minister, Mr. Kao Ling-wei, has reduced the staff of the Ministry of Communications by 300 from the various departments.

Advices from Szechuan say that Gen. Liu Hsiang has composed his differences with Gen. Hsiung Keh-wu and that they conjointly contemplate operations against Gen. Wu Pei-fu, while Gen. Chen Shu-fan threatens to invade Shensi, but all appear to be awaiting the issue of further developments in the North.

Gen. Tsao Kun suggested that the Ministry of war should retain the arms and equipment taken from the Fengtien troops in the region of the capital, but the Ministry is sending all to Paotingfu.

Various official committees are carrying out relief work among the distressed inhabitants in the vicinity of the recent battles. The whole region is regaining its normal state.

Foreign Powers Warned Against Entering Into Treaties With Fengtien

(Special Wire to THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, May 17.—While denying that Chang Tso-lin has declared independence, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in a note addressed to the Diplomatic Corps on Monday stated that a report has been received from General Tsao Kun to the effect that Chang Tso-lin had rebelled against the Central Government and was inviting treaty negotiations with foreign powers. The note concluded that the Peking Government would not recognise any arrangements made between Chang and the powers.

Over eighty li of trenches have been excavated by Chang Tso-lin at Ku Shien, Kaiping, Luanchow and Changli and 30 movable forts have been constructed in this region. General Wu Ching-shen, whom Peking had appointed as Chang's successor at Fengtien, had been ordered by Chang to return to Mukden and recruit 20,000 Hunghutse bandits for service at the front.

The first defense line is set at Ku Hsien and Hancheng under the command of Chi Tsang-yuan and the second line of defense at Luanchow is defended by Chang Tso-hsiang, Chang's brother, while Chang Tso-lin remains at the head of the entire army. Both Sun Lieh-chen and Feng Lin-kuo are at Luanchow, assisting Chang.

Thirteen carloads of Chihli troops arrived in Shukuochwang and Huangku on Sunday. Their objective is Kaiping. A Fengtien airplane at Tangshan was bagged on Sunday morning by Chihli machine guns while it was bombing the vicinity. The two pilots were wounded and sent to Paotingfu under military escort.

Chihli airplanes have been circulating handbills to foreign residences in Kaiping asking their occupants to leave the city in view of the pending hostilities.

The Kailan Mining Administration has advised both the Chihli and Fengtien Armies to withdraw from the mining districts within 24 hours.

Chang Tso-lin has re-organised the administration of the Peking-Mukden Railway. He will control the section between Mukden and Shanhaikwan, which will be known hereafter as the Fengyu Railway. He has appointed Tang Wen-kao its managing-director.

A Presidential Mandate ordering the suppression of Chang Tso-lin's army is being drafted. It is believed that as soon as it is promulgated, General Wu Pei-fu will resume his general offensive against Luanchow. Minor skirmishes have already begun in Kuhsien and Changli.

Yu Chung-han, Chang's trusted pro-Japanese protege, arrived in Tokio on May 10, it is authoritatively reported. Chang has authorised Yu to negotiate with the Tokio government for the alienation of the three Manchurian provinces, offering large concessions. However, it is believed that the recent Washington Conference will tie the hand of Japan in attempting to reach an understanding with Chang's agent.

"First Time China Did Not Have To Give Up Something"

(Reuter's Service)

Philadelphia, April 21.—Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to the United States, today addressed the City Club on "My impressions of the Washington Conference."

"The Washington Conference," said Dr. Sze, "was the first international meeting China ever attended at which she was not forced to give up something. The settlement of the Shantung question not only removed one of the obstacles of peace between China and Japan, but was a moral gain to the entire world."

Famine!

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, May 16.—At the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations Dr. Nansen vividly described the ravages of famine and disease in Russia and urged the Governments represented on the League of Nations to investigate the situation in Russia, with a view to taking measures to avert the possible consequences of the present situation.

The graphic details of the famine in Russia is being told in THE EVENING STAR daily in a series of fifteen articles by Thomas H. Dickinson, for four years historian of the American Relief Administration.

Back copies of THE EVENING STAR containing the first three installments may be secured at the office, corner Canton and Kiangse Roads.

never can be fulfilled because they are too vague to be defined. Innumerable plays and stories of the West describe this urge toward an unknown quest and the unhappiness that is suffered alike by those who follow and those who fail to follow. The average Chinese knows nothing of such longings. He entertains few desires that are beyond his ability to gratify. He has ambitions, but unlike his Western brother, he does no reaching for the stars.

NO GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Another reason for his happiness is the fact that he accepts life as it is. He does not kick against the pricks or try to rationalise or reform it. He does not expect too much of it. Practically every American, even of the poorest class, is brought up to believe that he has a high destiny. The oft-repeated remark that every little boy has a chance to be president of the United States has had its serious reaction on the national mind. Every little boy may not expect to be president, but at least he intends to be famous.

The result is that when a person whose vanity has been brought up on such a rich diet finds himself settled in a simple, commonplace existence, he rails against Fate and feels that his life has been a failure. The average Chinese, not having been nourished on the hope of occupying the chair of Old Hsu, does not feel that all his hopes have been blasted just because he must run a fish-shop instead of a nation. He therefore has a foundation for contentment that is denied his more expectant brother.

Chinese happiness is not the radiance of the man who has discovered a great constructive philosophy or a new force in religion. It is rather the good-natured contentment of the person who has accepted his lot in life and who has a sixth sense that is as valuable as any of the other five—a well-developed sense of humor.

NO STODGY CONTENT

Contentment in this case should not be confused with mere animal stolidity, for China did plenty of thinking on her own before having decided to accept things as they are. When we consider the situation, we can hardly blame them for shrugging away from Western ambitions and conceptions of life. All the turmoil of the Occident is only a struggle for happiness! China has the happiness, why therefore should she adopt the turmoil?

We remember outlining to a polite Chinese the great advantages which would come to China if she adopted modern methods in industry. We told him of labor-saving devices, of better standards of living for the workmen, and of the higher return which would come to them from their labor.

"And has it made your workmen very much happier than ours?" our Chinese friend inquired.

Our peroration ended at exactly that point.

Lumbago.

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

hief Scout Outlines Basic Training Methods Employed

Development of efficiency in e individual and harnessing at efficiency for the good of e community is the basic plan olved by leaders of the Baden-owell Boy Scouts, according to statement just issued by the hief Scout in which he outlines e methods employed.

"Recognising that labor ought nd is going to have a permanent hare in the governing of our ountry, and realising from object ssons elsewhere that if its embers are not educated be-reshand to their civic responsi-ilities they will not have a fair hance of making a success of it, ur schemes for training our uture citizens must be on lines hat regard the future eventuali-es and are not merely based on ast tradition," he says.

"It is not quite enough to say hat because our fathers learned rithmetic or because some fad-ist advocates physical training ur sons should therefore be ommitted to such instruction. he point to decide is whether rithmetic or physical training is ecessary to the training of the uture citizen, and, if it is, to et it down in the scheme for his raining. Our great fault in the ast has been that even if the im of training has been enun-iated it has too often been lost ight of in the steps, and these ave gradually assumed an im-ortance out of all proportion ith the original object."

In Shangnai, with the exception f one school, every headmaster s a strong supporter of the oy Scout movement. No less han six of the officers are choolmasters themselves. No reater testimonial of scouting ould be given. Professional men re giving up their free time to oys they work with all day. But they have been handicapped ecause they have "nowhere to ay their heads." They want a amp of their own to do as they ike in, and if hard work will et this, they will obtain what hey want.

Business men may help them n this object by sending an dvertisement for the Scout pro-ram to the Cathedral School Troop. Others, with nothing to dvertise, may purchase tickets or the Jamboree on Saturday rom any Scout they meet.

Mellows Bound Over On Forgery Charge

Thomas Edward Mellows will be tried by the British Supreme Court on charges of forgery and uttering a false check, Magistrate G. W. King announcing the deci-sion in the Police Court yester-day morning.

One witness was heard this morning, Mrs. Valenta Binks testifying that Mellows had asked her for money and she told him to wait until her husband returned to Shanghai on May 14 or 15.

Defendant said he called Mrs. Binks to show that he had no in-tention of defrauding the boarding house keeper to whom he gave the check which prompted the forgery charge.

Men had given her Every-thing in the world Except a chance to be true to her best self.

its decisions to the respective governments, on which the French and Belgians insisted.

Genoa, May 16.—The Political Sub-Commission, including the Russians and excluding the French and Belgians, met today. Signor Schanzer explained the Allied proposals and assured the Russians that they would be treated at the Hague on a footing of absolute equality.

M. Chicherin asked why Germany had been excluded and he was told that it was because she had signed a separate agreement with Russia. Eventually, the request of the Russians for an adjournment of twenty-four hours to consider an answer was granted.

M. Chicherin was told that the Allies were willing to consider another venue than The Hague and also that the pact of non-aggression would be concluded at Genoa and the formal engagement would be signed at Genoa.

M. Chicherin asked many questions. His request for the inclusion of claims among the subjects for further inquiry was granted. He asked why the Soviet Government was not recognised de jure and was told this would be a matter for the respective Governments after the commissions had concluded their labors.

M. Chicherin concluded with a controversial statement regarding the position in Eastern Siberia. Count Ishii replied effectively saying, inter alia, that Japan was ready to enter the non-aggression pact.' When the arguments between M. Chicherin and Count Ishii were becoming heated, Mr. Lloyd George smilingly intervened with the remark:

"It would be well if the pact were applied immediately."

Signor Schanzer intimated that the American note refusing to attend The Hague Conference will be a subject for further correspondence.

The Hague, May 16.—During their visit to Genoa, Jhr. van Karnebeek, the Dutch Foreign Minister, and M. Jaspar, the Belgian Foreign Minister, resumed conversations in regard to the revision of the treaties of 1839 and the question of the Wielingen channel.

The discussions were most cordial, but owing to the difficulties of reaching an agreement, it was decided to re-examine the questions from the beginning.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, May 10.—The Izvestia, comparing the Entente's last note with the London memorandum, declares, "Horse radish is not sweeter than radish. Capitulation disguised as arbitration commission with American or other judges is equally unacceptable. Misunderstanding our new economic policy, the Allies mistinterpret it as the renunciation of Soviet principles.

"They think that for de jure recognition and crumbs of loans Russia will surrender her sovereignty. They will be disappointed. The responsibility for a Genoa fiasco falls upon them exclusively. We can afford to wait until the Entente eventually is taught by events to discard its colonising policy."

REV. J. P. BRUCE WINS SCHOLASTIC HONOR IN LONDON

News is just to hand that the Rev. J. P. Bruce, M.A., of the English Baptist Mission, former President of the Shantung Christian University, has gained the London University Doctorate of Literature for a thesis on the philosophy of Chu Hsi, the great commentator on the Chinese Classics.

Dr. Brue was almost the first, if not the first, to gain the London M.A. degree in Chinese. For fifteen years, in such spare time as a strenuous teaching and administrative career has left him, Dr. Bruce has patiently pursued his investigations into the thought Chu Hsi. Starting, as most tern readers do, with the idea tha Chu Hsi was a clear-cut materialist and therefore mainly responsible for what is by many considered the non-theistic, materialistic trend of what may be termed the orthodox interpretation of the Classics, Dr. Bruce has, as the result of long first hand study, come to admire Chu Hsi as an out-and-out idealist, whose basis of interpretation is essentially spiritual.

Messrs. Probsthain of London are shortly bringing out a work by Dr. Bruce in three volumes. Two of these volumes are taken up with Dr. Bruce's translation of and notes on certain works of the Chinese philosopher, the third volume is his estimate of Chu Hsi's philosophy. This third volume is practically the thesis for the doctorate. The few people in Peking and North China who have seen the work in manuscript can speak of its remarkable insight and freshness, as well as of the sustained, patient and scholarly investigation which characterises it.

Dr. Bruce is one of the sources of quite a number of people in this country who are teaching psychology, philosophy and theology in Mandarin, his proof-sheets being used, in their rough form, by teachers who cannot wait for the works to appear in their finished state. Dr. Bruce is to be congratulated on a very jealously guarded, seldom conferred, distinction.

Chang's Envoy In Japan, Paper Hears

Chang Tso-lin has sent a deputy named Yu Chung-han to Japan to negotiate with the Japanese Government concerning an alliance under which the Three Eastern Provinces, recently declared independent by Chang, would be under the control of Japan, according to a Peking telegram published yesterday by the Sin Wan Pao.

The Chinese newspaper goes on to say that in case definite connection of Japan with Chang Tso-lin is established it will "result in a big war between the different nations."

kitchen, pantry, and the preparation of food. This is not really a great burden, but it is the place where the housekeeper so often falls down.

"In the matter of recreation there is a very wide range of choice, especially with so many parks available for the foreign children. After all, in health as in most other things, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. The fact remains that children born and brought up in China stand well above the average both physically and mentally. If you question this statement a visit to the American School or the Cathedral School will dispel any doubt. A finer and more virile group of children cannot be found in any land. Witness the boys and girls who are going home and taking first place in athletics and the class-rooms of the best colleges of America and England. Witness some of your own acquaintances here in Shanghai who were China-born. I am satisfied that China is a good place to rear children and I trust I have made it clear why I think they should be allowed to stay."

Outsider, Dondook, Wins In Champions At Peking Meet; Gomboo Was Second

Favorite Fuselage Lead To The Stretch, Then Beaten Out Of A Place

Dondoox, an outside pony, ridden by Mr. Mackay, took the champions' race at the Peking Spring Meeting, defeating the favorite Fuselage by many lengths. The result was a surprise for owners, riders and backers. Fuselage was not even placed. The race was an excellent one. From a good start Fuselage took the lead, which he maintained for most of the distance. At the halfmile post Mackay on Dondook caught up with him and the two raced in company into the straight.

At this point Dondook took the lead and Fuselage was challenged and passed by Gomboo and Why Not, the latter two fighting hard to gain second place. Although the time is the slowest for many meetings Mr. Mackay is to be congratulated on the judgment he showed and the race that he rode. That Fuselage should lose and that Gomboo should come so close to winning the race are the outstanding features of the race.

Shanghai Baseball Nine To Play Tung Wen College On Saturday And Sunday

Students Form Best Jap Team In Shanghai; Will Make Big Team Hustle

Tung Wen College which perhaps has the best student team of baseball players in Shanghai will provide the week-end games against the big Shanghai Baseball Club team. Dates were booked yesterday for the collegians to meet the local nine on the race course diamond commencing at 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Tung Wen men have been playing the game this year since the first signs of spring, and are now in their best condition. They played against a strong picked team at Hongkew Park last Sunday which included many individuals who have worked against Shanghai in other years, and they beat them handily. The Tung Wen college is a finishing school for Japanese students who intend to make their career in China. The students are all sizeable men, averaging over 22 years of age, and have a long baseball training behind them.

The Japanese team will line up as follows:

K. Urakawa, short stop.
J. Kobayashi, right field.
K. Yasusawa, second base.
M. Oshima, first base.
M. Toeda, catcher.
H. Ohye, left field.
C. Matsunami, pitcher.
M. Ishida, third base.
M. Mansawa, T. Tokura, W. Ohba, M. Wakayama, substitutes.

Shanghai will oppose the Japanese students with teams composed from their full roster of players. Every player appearing on the field in uniform will be given his chance against the Tung Wen men, either on Saturday or on Sunday. The general idea is to assign a team on each day composed half of old men and half of new. Wynn will pitch one game and Scott the other. Bruce will catch one day and Hirsh the next.

S. A. S. Nine To Play At St. John's Today

The Shanghai American School baseball team will meet the St. John's University nine at St. John's this afternoon in the first game of the inter-school tourney which is planned this spring between the American School, the Public School, St. John's, Nanyang and Shanghai College. St. John's have been working out but have not yet played a game this year, whereas the American boys have twice tackled the big Shanghai club and showed well.

Sores from Wrist to Elbow

"Completely Healed"

Our portrait is of Mr. John Kidd, of 17, Mill Lane, Kilmarnock, Scotland, who writes:—"My right arm became covered with sores from wrist to elbow and was useless for over two years. I tried different ointments and so-called cures, but they never did me any good. Then I tried your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and the sores soon began to heal up and power began to come back to my arm, so I persevered with the Mixture, and after having four bottles am glad to say my arm is completely healed up and I have now the full use of it." In a further letter over a twelvemonth later Mr. Kidd writes: "I have had no return of my complaint; my arm is still as sound as a bell and never troubles me in the least."

Cotton Acreage In U. S. 5 P. C. Up

he was bearish because he gained the impression that the South would do everything possible this season to plant a good cotton crop. Writing from Texas a few days ago, the crop expert of a big spot house here said we are now at a date when any delay in planting will be detrimental out that given good weather, the crop should soon be planted and would grow fast and perhaps overcome its lateness.

Memphis reports that spinners are showing increasing interest in high grade benders and long staples, and owners are of the opinion that a better premium will prevail on them before another crop is grown. It is said that Memphis and the valley territory where cotton has been held on a pretty firm basis throughout the season, have lost a great deal of business to Texas and other parts of the South where the cotton has been available on a relatively more favorable basis.

Sentiment is still bullish for the long run of prices on the ground that the late start will result in another boll weevil scare this summer and that any possibility of a small crop in view of improving conditions throughout the country should start an active buying movement among the mills as well as the speculative public. In fact many look for a very active market this summer.

Policemen Are Held On Extortion Charge

Three Chinese constables, charged with attempted extortion, were arraigned before British Assessor Mead and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed court yesterday. The locomotive engineer saw the truck, but was unable to stop the train in time to avert the collision.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "hustling." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant; we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, but old age. There is talk of rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands, but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our old soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now universally obtainable, gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and a clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

A Paramount Picture

Victoria Theatre

TONIGHT! TONIGHT!

"NUGGET NELL"

Nellie was lady. She didn't give a darn who knew it! And if clothes could help, she was out to get 'em with a gun.

But after a succession of startling hold-ups (and take-offs) that will make your eyes pop; after nifty Nell has saved the old stage coach and the young hero, and "licked" an army of bloody bandits, and everything; and after you have laughed yourself hoarse at this yip-yowling burlesque travesty on the Wild and Movie West—you'll say that Dorothy Gish is the funniest of she-heros that ever captured a man.

A roaring burlesque travesty on the Wild and Movie West, with the screen's funniest comedienne. Don't miss them!

DIVER FIGHTS FOR LIFE WITH GIGANTIC FISH

Harrowing Adventure Tale Sent Out From Puget Sound

(Reuter's Service)

Tacoma, Wash., April 22.—Battling for his life fifty feet beneath the surface of Puget Sound Walter McCray, a diver known in marine circles from Alaska to California, came out victorious here yesterday over a giant devilfish. The monster wound its tentacles so tightly about McCray that the diver was unable to reach the knife he carried for protection. When one tentacle threatened to cut off the air supply, McCray, through the submarine telephone, called for a short steel wrecking bar. With this weapon he was able to pierce the body of the devilfish and at last, with man and monster still struggling desperately, McCray was drawn to the surface by his assistant and other men called to help.

While Richard Burnett, a dock watchman, stood by with drawn pistols, unable to shoot because the diver and devilfish were so completely tangled, others attacked with what weapons there were at hand and finally the devilfish released its hold and disappeared beneath the water.

The devilfish was one of the largest ever seen in these waters and was the first, McCray said, that ever attacked him.

McCray suffered chiefly from exhaustion.

Geddes Urges Troubled Nations To Get Together

Sir Auckland Likens World To Colorado Canyon

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 21.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, in a speech tonight before the Pilgrim Society in the Plaza Hotel said:

"It is not uninteresting to recall that when last I had the honor to address you, the topics of Anglo-American interest which I selected for reference were oil, naval shipbuilding and Ireland. I think we may say that none of these topics now calls for discussion as a live international issue likely to affect prejudicially the good relations of the British Empire and the United States."

Remarking that the lack of an Anglo-American difference, "though diplomatically most gratifying, is oratorically most hampering," the ambassador said he did not dare enter into competition with some writers who described the recent treaty-making in Washington. "They have told us," he said, "all about the hidden motives and the jealously guarded secret discussions. Frankly, though I was a delegate, I was in complete ignorance of these mysterious conclaves until I read of them in my favorite morning paper, even when, as sometimes was the case, I found that someone using my name had been present and had manifested an almost Machiavellian cynicism."

Sir Auckland likened the world situation to the Colorado Canyon, one side of which is a bleak stretch of desert and the other grassy and wooded slopes of mountains. He said the situation was as if the people of the world, having traversed the desert stood on the brink of the canyon, with only the sharp descent, the troubledriver and the hard ascent to overcome before they realized real lasting happiness and prosperity. "None of us can be as happy as we [illegible], nor so prosperous as we might until all are across the canyon. Let us get together. Let us help one another. It is in that spirit that the delegates of the British Empire assembled last autumn, and it was in that spirit that your Secretary of State led all the delegations to the most successful of all international meetings."

Japanese Halt Drive In Siberia

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, May 12.—The head of the Japanese military mission, Colonel Gomi, interviewed by press representatives said that after the withdrawal of the Far Eastern Republic troops in the direction of Iman, the Japanese offensive has been temporarily stopped but is liable to be resumed whenever the Japanese command deems it necessary.

The time when this will happen cannot be ascertained, he said. Anyhow the Japanese occupation force here is to be increased by the eighth division, he announced.

Yamaguchi has returned to Vladivostok to resume negotiations with Merkuloff concerning loans with Japan.

Engineers To Open Negotiations Again

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 16.—As an outcome of the report of Sir Willian Mackenzie, direct negotiations were opened at Westminster today between the engineering employers and all the engineering unions. The meeting adjourned until tomorrow when the employers have undertaken to submit definite proposals.

Stevens To Have Two Substitutes

(China Mei Service)

Peking, May 13.—Mr. F. B. Lynch, of the International Banking Corporation and later, on his return early in August, Mr. Bennett, of the same bank, will represent the American Group in the Consortium during Mr. Stevens' absence in America. Mr. Stevens expresses regret that it has been reported that there is internal difficulty in the Consortium, saying that there is not the slightest foundation in fact for such a report, that the relations between the groups as well as the relations between the group representatives here in Peking are absolutely cordial and always have been.

Commons Refuses To O. K. Teachers' Pension Measure

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 16.—The Government was defeated today in a thinly-attended House by 151 votes to 148 on a motion of adjournment which was carried against it on the Teachers' Superannuation Bill which gives effect to the recommendation of the Geddes Economy Committee that teachers should henceforth contribute 5 percent of their salaries towards their pensions instead of the State providing the pensions as hitherto.

Reuter's Lobby correspondent says that the political effect of the Government defeat is not yet known. The Cabinet will meet tomorrow to consider the position.

League To Assume Albania Mandate

(China Press Service)

Geneva, May 16.—The Supreme Council of the League of Nations virtually has decided that the League will assume the mandate for the protection of Albania. This action will be taken only after the objections of Italy have been overcome, the Italians standing firm as yet for this mandate.

This intended action marks a new departure on the part of the League of Nations which heretofore has steadfastly refused to undertake such extensive obligations as this mandate will entail. It is understood that all details of the internal administration of the Albanian territory will be carried on by the league's representatives.

Students Observe Humiliation Day

(China Press Correspondence)

Huchow, (Chekiang) May 12.—Students from all the government schools and some of the mission schools held a patriotic service on Tuesday night in memory of the humiliation suffered at the hands of the Japanese when they were forced to accept the 21 Demands at the point of the bayonet.

A special program was arranged consisting of various musical numbers and addresses. The national anthem was sung by all with enthusiasm, and the addresses were delivered with much fire and spirit.

Anti-Bolsheviks To Be Tried In June

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 16.—An official telegram from Moscow says that the trial of socialist revolutionaries for conspiracy against the Soviet Government will begin in June. The Soviet Government has consented to allow about a dozen prominent fellow international socialists, including M. Vandervelde, to defend the prisoners but declares that the three Russians among the defenders will be kept in such conditions as to preclude the possibility of anti-Soviet activities during their stay in Russia.

According to a Berlin telegram prisoners at Moscow started a hunger strike again six days ago. The last hunger strike lasted from April 1 to April 10.

The Problem Of Reconstruction

BY JOSEF W. HALL

GENERAL Wu Pei-fu returned from Tientsin to Paotingfu last night, May 11. Twelve days ago, the morning of April 29, he left Paoting to begin his whirlwind campaign, which he predicted would last less than two weeks. The fighting is now over, and interest centers on the reconstruction to follow. Those who have been close to General Wu during his three years' ascent from, as Chang Tso-lin pleased to term him, "a subordinate military officer," to his present position as arbiter of the nation's affairs, appreciate that the little commander has now reached the greatest crisis in his career. Whether he is so well prepared for the problems of victory as for those of war is a question. He is not without certain very definite ideas, which embrace some of the fundamental reforms requisite to China's national salvation, and which we may expect him to enforce with his usual determination.

Some fears are occasioned by the man's humbleness, and self-limitation of his sphere. He told a delegation of Tientsin gentry what he has often repeated, that "he knows nothing of governmentation—but is solely a military man, and cannot undertake administrative responsibility." The unaccustomed adulation which has been tendered him by Chinese and foreigners alike during the stay of his car at Tientsin Central station, instead of arousing in him ambition, has bewildered and wearied him, and filled him with a longing to withdraw to his quiet retreat at Loyang.

And yet this very psychology of the hero, although it may cause doubts in some minds is the one most hopeful feature of the present situation. During the past twelve years China has repeatedly fallen into the military control of men of primitive ambition, and the result has been a succession of attempts at despotism, benevolent or otherwise. Their futility has demonstrated that, in spite of the unchanging opinion of the Legation Quarter in Peking, China does not want and will not have despotism. The reason for the successive downfalls of the men whom the powers have thought themselves clever in backing is the tendency of the Chinese people to unite for the elimination of any one of their number who attempts to make himself lord over them.

For the first time in the Republican era we have, in Wu Pei-fu, an unchallengable military power who not only avoids but is devoid of the desire to dominate. Consequently there now exists for the first time in the Republican era a gleam of hope for the creation of representative government among this people.

Although General Wu has a plan for reconstruction which he believes would prove more complete than any other which might be proposed, he is determined to subordinate his ideas to those which may be put forward by leaders or organisations in the provinces. He desires that the initial move toward whatever changes shall be accomplished should come from non-military factors in the provinces rather than from himself. He favors reconstruction through a national constitutional convention but he will not bring about such a convention unless there is an evident wide-spread demand. He is determined to avoid the accusation that such an assembly would be a mere agent for the imposition of his will.

Second only to General Wu Pei-fu's confidence in the people is his faith in what time can accomplish. He is in no hurry. Although almost Occidental in energy, he is, in his willingness to let time help to solve his problems, thoroughly Oriental. He told some correspondents yesterday that he would guarantee the settlement of China's basic political troubles within one year. Before the conversation was over he had asked that the time be extended by another half year. His ability to wait is one of the qualities which inspire confidence in his success.

Several years ago, when the Anfus were selling his country, he was able to wait until the arrival of the best opportunity for dealing them their death blow. Later when Chang Tso-lin stood in the way of political reform, he was able to contain himself in peace until the time came to strike. Now he is calmly waiting to see whether or not President Hsu is a big enough man to step out of his high position and leave the way clear for reunification negotiations with the South. His uncanny ability to bide his time rather than act at an inopportune moment makes the man a power among a people whose strength lies in quietness and confidence rather than in action.

There were many who expected General Wu to wreck his schemes in an attempt to impose a hastily called national convention upon the country. It has become clear that the General will not be rushed either by his own hopes or by the advice of political theorists of a single idea. But he is not—as one might imagine—letting things drift. While waiting patiently for expressions from the various sections of the country, he is exercising a restraining hand over Peking officialdom. By the process of veto he is compelling the selection of a tentative cabinet personnel from which a competent government can be constructed in the event that no radical measure for reform eventuates.

As to matters other than reunification and administrative personnel, General Wu has decided views. With his usual intuition he has grasped the fact that corruption in governmental finance is the basic cause of China's weakness. He demands a radical reform in the administration of communications and tax revenues. He insists upon an honest man for the fortfolio of finance, if such an one is to be found. It is because he has suspected the integrity of every person proposed by Peking for this post within the past week that the Wang Shih-chang cabinet has not been formed. Although not a financial man, Wu has a definite program for foreign loans, which is so radically different from anything heretofore proposed that it has elicited the amazement as well as the commendation of foreign financial authorities who have been informed of it. Instead of the policy of expenditure of foreign money by Chinese under foreign audit which has been unsatisfactorily followed since foreign capital first endeavored to invest in this land, General Wu proposes that the foreign money be spent by foreigners under Chinese audit and nominal administration. This policy provides for every guarantee that funds will actually go into the enterprises designated while at the same time the Chinese prestige and sovereignty are respected, and "face" is fully preserved.

Criticism of Wu will not cease and cynicism in regard to the results of his victory will continue to abound. But there is a fair chance that the little General, who refuses to let opposition force him into drastic measures or to allow prosperity to carry him away, will be able to accomplish his program for placing the nation definitely upon the upgrade in the year and a half during which he conceives that he will be required at the helm.

Whooping Cough.

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

His Pen Tempered At Sorrow's Forge

Moscow,—The Moscow Literary Club has read the recently discovered unpublished chapters of Dostoievsky's novel "Deils".—Rosta News Agency.

To struggling geniuses railing at the lack of appreication, to do nothing dreamers seeking an excuse for failure of performance in an unfavorable environment, to the procrastinators who fancy they could do big things if only they were relieved of the grinding cares and responsibilities of the struggle for mere existence, let us commend a study of the career and achievements of that remarkable Russian novelist, Feodor Dostoievsky, who was ushered into a world of poverty, affliction, misery and misfortune, at Moscow a hundred years ago and died the acknowledged masterwriter of his day in his own peculiar field of literature.

Authors and artists aplenty there are, and have been from time immemorial, whose worth has risen slowly through the depressive burdens of poverty, but few had the handicaps in the life struggle that fell to the lot of Dostoievsky. An epileptic from birth, the son of a workhouse hospital surgeon, the inheritor of a hypochondriac temperament, with lapses across the borderlands of sheer insanity, condemned to a life of penury and ill-health with a period of penal servitude in Siberia superadded, he nevertheless achieved a foremost place in Russian literature and lived to see his name linked with those of Pushkin and Tolstoi as one of the three greatest writers of his times. And this he accomplished by turning all his handicaps into accessories to his art, by making of his own extraordinary experiences, like Tennyson's Ulysses, "an arch where through he viewed the world" and interpreted its strange inconsistencies to his fellowmen.

Time has only made more secure Dostoievsky's place in literature. Though it is only of comparatively late years that his greatest works have been made available through translations to English and American readers, his master craftsmanship received instant acknowledgement. "Dostoievsky," says Maurice Baring, the English writer, "is one of the two great columns which support the temple of Russian literature—Tolstoi is the other. His 'Crime and Punishment' is the greatest tragedy about a murderer that has been written since Macbeth." Professor Bruckner, author of the "Literary History of Russia," ranks him even above Goethe, as an interpreter of the human mystery. "It is not in 'Faust,' but rather in 'Crime and Punishment,' that the whole grief of mankind takes hold on us." And Arnold Bennett, the English novelist, acknowledges him a supreme, if eccentric, master in his own profession. In a review of Maurice Baring's book on Dostoievsky he wrote:

"I thought I had read all the chief works of the five great Russian novelists, but last year I came across one of Dostoievsky's, 'The Brothers Karamazov,' of which I had not heard. I thought it contained some of the greatest scenes that I had ever encountered in fiction. The scene with the old monk at the beginning of the book is in the very grandest heroical manner. There is nothing in either English or French prose to hold a candle to it. There is probably nothing in Russian literature to match it, outside Dostoievsky's own 'Crime and Punishment.' These pages are unique. They reach the highest and most terrible pathos that art has ever reached. And if an author's reputation among people of taste depended solely on his success with single scenes, Dostoievsky would outrank all other novelists, if not all poets. But it does not. Dostoievsky's works, all of them, have grave faults. They are tremendously unlevel both in large outline and in detail. Nobody, perhaps, ever sympathised with human nature as Dosttievsky did. Indubitably nobody with the help of God and good luck ever swooped so high into tragic grandeur. But the man had fearful falls. He could not trust his wings. He is an adorable, a magnificent, a profoundly sad figure in letters."

Dostoievsky's best known work is his "Crime and Punishment." It it not merely the story of a murderer, struggling to suppress his conscience and threading the tangled pathways of psychological justification to a goal of regenerative expiation. It is an epic of the submerged human soul, revealing with the lights of an extraordinary genius and an extraordinary experience the complex causes of social unrest that lie deeply and sullenly hidden beneath the superstructure of luxury and grandeur. Reading the book one finds oneself in the grasp of a powerful fascination, as if groping through subterranean caverns towards a light that will make clear the mystery of human inequalities and the deep rotted causes of human miseries. The characters are living, breathing personalities, who have thrown aside the veils of conventions and confessed the innermost thoughts of their souls—face to face with them we hear humanity thinking frankly aloud, without reservations, not as voicing a complaint or pleading their wrongs, but as disclosing, in intimate converse, the most secret sources of human motivations. It was of Russia that Dostoievsky wrote, but it is the submerged strata of the world at large that he interprets.

Dostoievsky has been classified both as a great psychologist and as a great realist. He himself resented being placed in either of these literary categories. He disdained the inconsequential, sordid little details that are usually paraded under the name of realism, and his psychology took the form and the purpose of a definite psychoanalysis—he was one of the first to explore the unknown realms of the subconscious which Sigmund Freud afterwards exploited. It is in the Freudian formulas that the interpretation of his characters is to be sought. He called himself a "literary proletarian," his sympathies were proletarian in the broader ethical spirit of humanity's kinship. He was neither an agnostic nor an atheist—he believed in the people as he believed in God. "The people," he said, "have a lofty instinct for truth. They may be dirty, degraded, repellent, but without them and in disregard of them nothing useful in this world can be effected." Class intellectualism despised, the intellectual aristocracy who "go to the people not to learn to know them, but condescendingly to instruct and patronise them," were anathema to him. He saw his people dehumanised by abnormal social conditions, and his propaganda was directed to the vital things that lay at the roots of abnormal human actions.

Feodor Dostoievsky was born in 1821, in a charity hospital of Moscow, where his father was a poor staff surgeon belonging to the lowest order of decayed nobility. Morbid, eccentric, lonely and unsociable—the reactions of his psycapathic temperament—he went through the common schools of Moscow and was graduated at 23 from a school of military engineers. But his bent was toward literature and he determined, in spite of his poverty and his bodily afflictions, to make it his life work. Three years after he left school he published his first novel—"Poor Folk"—a book whose simple pathos touched the heart of Russian readers and at once placed Dostoievsky a marked figure in the new school of Russian realism. But it was succeeded by a period of hack work in the face of grinding poverty—"work from want and for money almost crushed and devoured me," he said. Then came the tragic event of Dostievsky's life which colored his whole literary career. He was arrested in 1849, together with his brother and thirty-two others, for participation in the meetings of a revolutionary group which occupied itself chiefly in discussions of ideal forms of social existence—intellectual revolutionaries they were, dreaming in their poverty of the dawn of a better day. The Great White Czar determined to give them a lesson in autocratic patriotism. Feodor Dostoievsky, with twenty-one of his associates, was tried by a military tribune and condemned to die. On December 22, 1849, they were taken to the place of execution. The coffins which were to receive their bodies were placed in plain sight nearby. "They snapped their swords above our heads," Dostoievsky wrote afterwards, in describing the scene. "They make us put on the long white shirts worn by persons condemned to death. We were bound in parties of three to stakes to suffer execution. Being third in the row, I concluded that I had only a few minutes to live. I thought of my dear ones and managed to kiss Plestcheev and Dourov, who were next to me, and to bid them farewell."

At the last moment, when the firing squad was preparing to take aim, a white handerchief was waved in front of them—it was the signal that the czar had canceled the military tribunal's sentence of death, committing it to one of hard labor for four years in Siberia. It had all been prearranged—a little terroristic joke of the czar's to impress upon his free thinking subjects a lesson of respect for the government of the Little Father. One of the group went mad and Dostoievsky, though his life was spared, suffered all the agonies of a mental death, to which was added four years of living death in the convict camps of Siberia. But it all went into his log of experience for future literary purpose. He came to know the hearts and souls of those slaves of autocracy and to interpret them as no one before him had done. "I found them, not wild beasts," he wrote afterwards, "but men probably better, and perhaps much worthier than myself. During those bitter years I went through a great deal but I shall be able to write about what I have seen and experienced, in the future, for the world's good."

His four years in the Siberian camps brought forth his "Letters from the House of the Dead," one of the greatest documents on human crime and its punishment that the world possesses. He left the camp, by pardon, only to take up a life of three years of enforced military service—a marked man—then three years more of life in Siberia. When at last he was able to resume has place in civic life, he took up the trade of journalism and literature, producing his wirk under the direct conditions of poverty, ill health and social isolation. In 1866 his "Crime and Punishment" made its appearance, written when he was at the zenith of his literary powers. The book electrified the reading world and placed its author side by side with Tolstoi as a master of the psychological novel. It gave the world new conceptions of human life, of the balance of good and evil in men, and of the Russian character. It was followed by other novels which, though sounding marvelous depths of tragic and analytic power, were unequal in execution and deficient in balanace. Among these were: "The Possessed," "The Injured and Innocent," "The Adult" and the "Brothers Karamazov"—the latter a work that very nearly approached "Crime and Punishment" in power and intensity, but which failed to measure up to his greatest work and did not meet with the same popular reception.

A tense drama of city life, upper world, under world, riches, poverty, selfishness and Stunning Contrasts.

Wu Wants Tung Kang To Be Finance Minister In Peking's New Cabinet

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 13.—Wang Shih-chen still hesitates to accept the premiership until certain endorsements of his policy have been obtained and until the positions of Ministers of Finance and Communications have been settled.

Wu Pei-fu in his capacity as a citizen has recommended Tung Kang for the portfolio of Finance and although there is no definite decision as yet, present indications point very strongly to his nomination.

The suggestion from Wu Pei-fu came as a distinct surprise and has had a bracing effect upon the atmosphere of gloom occasioned by the mysterious arrests, particularly that of C. S. Liu. If Tung Kang goes in as Minister of Finance it will mean a thorough cleansing and will be a distinct triumph for the supporters of Wu Pei-fu, according to reports circulated in both Chinese and foreign circles.

"Tung Kang is absolutely honest and reliable," asserted Wu. He suggests Kau En-hung for Communications.

Telegrams have been dispatched to all of the provincial authorities asking if they will support Wang and setting forth in some detail his views. Up to the present writing not more than six answers have been received. These are favorable. It is generally believed that the required support will be obtained.

TUNG KANG MAY ACCEPT

Tung Kang, when questioned as to his acceptance of the post of Minister of Finance, said that the report that he had been recommended for the post was correct and that he had recently received two representatives from Wu Pei-fu urging him to accept it. He said that as was known he had no experience in the administration of the department of finances and could undertake the work only upon certain assurances.

The chief among these was that he be allowed a free hand to make such changes as he saw fit and to practice the economies which were necessary for the salvaging of the nation's finances. He will insist that the military budget be cut down to that of the first year of the Republic and that there be a country-wide pruning of useless and superfluous officials including several of the unnecessary commissions.

He says he feels that his experience upon the loan investigation committee has shown him the wholesale waste and disorganisation to which the department of finance has been subject and that it may be successfully remoulded only by the most sweeping changes. He therefore hesitates to make any definite answer as to his acceptance of the portfolio until he has learned whether the government will be willing to give him authority to proceed.

This recent development precludes all chances of the appointment of Chung Shih-ming and the latter is said to be busy again in the Ministry of Finance attempting to straighten out his accounts. He will have to make satisfactory explanation of any discrepancies such as are reported to have been discovered there.

ALL ENDORSE VIEWS OF WU

The first entry of Wu Pei-fu into the cabinet situation has been considered of tremendous importance and has been thoroughly endorsed. Although General Wu at first declined to make any suggestions the new Premier elect sent envoys asking him to give some indication of his wishes. Wu Pei-fu is reported to have replied that he had no business or direct interest as an army officer in interfering with the administration or formation of the cabinet.

"However, as I have been asked for an opinion," he continued, "I am glad to give it, but only in my capacity as a citizen and not as commander of these armies. In the first place I believe that whatever else is done the posts of Finance and Communications are most essential to any successful reorganisation of the country. We must have good men to fill them. For Finance, I recommend Tung Kang. For the Ministry of Communications I suggest Mr. Kau En-hung, a French returned student now chief of the department of materials and supplies at Shanghai.

"The investigation which Tung Kang conducted in the Ministry of Finance has been of inestimable value and although very little has as yet been accomplished by it, this is the fault of the judicial department who have been weak and inefficient. He must now be given support. I do not know him personally, but judging from his record and his present actions he must be a man of force, determination, and absolutely honest and reliable.

"Kau En-hung also has a most excellent reputation from all I have heard of him. I think he would be an excellent man to make the great changes in the Ministry of Communications which are needed."

The suggestion of Kau En-hung has been rather of a surprise and it is felt that he has not had the requisite experience. In view of this fact, coupled with Wu's support it appears likely that he may be named Vice Minister of Communications, and Kau Ling-wei Minister. Liang Po-ling, Telegraphs Director at Tientsin has been made acting Director General of Railroads, pending the settlement of the case of C. S. Liu.

It is still hoped that some way be found to straighten out the Liu matter, as there is no one now connected with the Ministry or mentioned for appointment who has had the experience of Mr. Liu or appears as well qualified. The latter however seems to intend resigning no matter what the outcome. He had believed himself able to do his work aloof from politics and his arrest has been a humiliating indication of his failure. He will probably withdraw from all government service unless the entire affair can be thoroughly cleared up.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
The Effects of Opiates.
THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.
The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician, cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

A. F. PEBLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.
"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.
"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, harmless effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARDEE, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.
"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. CONPMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.
"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner that by other proprietary preparation. It is a safe and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
